2. Citations and explanations

This report makes reference to the following document:

D1: US-A-5 862 852 (KARAKI MITSUHIRO ET AL) 26 January 1999 (1999-01-26).

D1 is regarded as the prior art closest to the subject matter of claims 1 and 2. It discloses (the reference signs in parentheses refer to D1):

a diecast cylinder crankcase with a continuous row of cylinder liners (4) cast into the cylinder crankcase (3).

The subject matter of claims 1 and 2 differs from the known diecast cylinder crankcase in that the row of cylinder liners has a water jacket.

Therefore, the subject matter of claims 1 and 2 is novel (PCT Article 33(2)).

The problem to be solved by the present invention can therefore be regarded as that of enabling the water jacket to have a simple design.

INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION REPORT

International application No.
PCT/EP 03/06984

Since none of the available prior art documents renders obvious a water jacket having a row of cylinder liners, the solution to the problem of interest as proposed in claims 1 and 2 of the present application involves an inventive step (PCT Article 33(3)).

The method according to claim 7 involves the formation of the water jacket while the row of cylinder liners is being cast, and therefore said claim is likewise regarded as novel and inventive for the reasons mentioned above.

Claims 3 to 6 are dependent on claim 1 or claim 2 and therefore likewise meet the PCT requirements for novelty and inventive step.
